

WASHINGTON INTERNSHIP

During the summer and throughout the year, my office offers internships to college students. The most ideal time to serve as an intern in Washington is after your sophomore or junior year of college, and applicants who have not completed two years of college will not be accepted. These internships usually last from four to six weeks and are a great experience for students who want to learn about the Congressional Legislative process. The number of spots is limited, so contact my office early to start the application process. The deadline for 2012 Summer internships is March 1, 2013.

Please submit the following information to apply for a summer internship:

- Resume that includes your overall GPA
- A cover letter with exact dates of availability
- One writing sample, no longer than three pages
- Three letters of recommendation

Mail applications to:

U.S. Representative Spencer Bachus

ATTN: Internship Coordinator

2246 Rayburn Building

Washington, DC 20515

Applications can also be emailed to MeriGlenn.Freeman@mail.house.gov .

HOUSE PAGE PROGRAM

Speaker Boehner and Minority Leader Pelosi have announced the discontinuation of the House page program. Applications are no longer being accepted.
